

This is a detailed black and white map of the Yangtze River delta region. The map shows the river's course as it flows from the north, through the delta, and into the East China Sea. Key geographical features include:

- Major Cities and Towns: Suzhou (蘇州), Wuxi (無錫), and Shanghai (上海) are prominently labeled. Other smaller locations like Zhenjiang (鎮江) and Nanjing (南京) are also indicated.
- Mountains: The Kunshan Mountains (崑山) and the Wuyang Mountains (無錫山) are shown in the northern part of the map.
- Lakes and Waterways: The Taihu Lake (太湖) is a central feature, surrounded by numerous smaller lakes and canals. The Yangtze River (長江) is the main waterway, with many tributaries and branches.
- Coastal Features: The map shows the river's mouth near Shanghai, with labels for the Yangtze River Estuary (長江口) and the surrounding coastal areas.
- Topographical Details: The map uses various line styles and shading to represent different types of terrain, including mountains, hills, and flat land.

The map is oriented with North at the top. It provides a comprehensive overview of the delta's complex geography and its major urban centers.
